STETSON UNIVERSITY

Stetson University and the city of DeLand have grown hand in hand over the years. Founded in 1883 by New York businessman Henry A. DeLand, the university was named for John B. Stetson, the hat manufacturer and philanthropist who gave generously to the school. The first five buildings on campus were built between 1884 and 1908. Florida's first College of Law was founded at Stetson in 1900. In 1954, it relocated to a 12-acre campus in Gulfport/St. Petersburg on the west side of the state.

In 1958, the DeLand campus had grown from 33 to 80 acres, and campus buildings more than doubled. After World War II, enrollment soared and, in 1962, Stetson became the first private college in Florida to integrate its student body. The duPont-Ball Library was added in 1964 and the Edmunds Center in 1974. The university then acquired additional property and began renovations of its older buildings.

As the university approached the 21st century, a new addition was added to the duPont-Ball Library. New facilities included Hollis Center and Rinker Field House, Wilson Athletic Center, the Mandy Stoll Tennis Center, Patricia Wilson Field softball complex and six new student residence halls. In partnership with the city of DeLand, Melching Field at Conrad Park was built as the new home of Hatter baseball. In 2003, the Lynn Business Center became the first certified "green" building in Florida. A new Science Center, the Mary B. McMahan Hall for music, the Homer and Dolly Hand Art Center and the Rinker Environmental Learning Center are recent additions to campus, which now spans 175 acres.

State-of-the-art classrooms, library facilities and courtrooms have been added at the College of Law, including the Eleazer Courtroom, a national model for providing courtroom access to the elderly or disabled. The Center at Celebration, near Orlando, opened in 2001, and the Tampa Law Center opened in 2004 in a building that also houses the Tampa branch of Florida's 2nd District Court of Appeal.

The university has been independent since it was founded, but had a historical relationship with the Baptist denomination. That relationship was dissolved in the early 1990s, but the university affirms the importance of spiritual life and the pursuit of truth.

Education is provided in a creative community at the intersection where learning and values meet – encouraging the qualities of mind and heart that prepare students to reach their full potential as informed citizens and stewards of their communities and the world. Stetson's collaborative teaching and learning approaches stimulate critical thinking, imaginative inquiry, creative expression and lively intellectual debate, and provide the foundation for rewarding careers and advanced study in selective graduate and professional programs around the country and the world.

By bringing together excellence in education, a commitment to core values and a dedication to stewardship, the university encourages its members to demonstrate personal integrity; develop an appreciation for the spiritual dimension of life; embrace leadership in an increasingly complex, interdependent, and technological world; and commit to active forms of social responsibility.

With 243 faculty serving 3,594 students, Stetson truly is now one university from coast to coast in Florida. From the College of Arts & Sciences, the School of Business Administration and the School of Music in DeLand to the Stetson University Center at Celebration, the Tampa Law Center and the College of Law in Gulfport, Stetson is poised to address the challenges of private higher education in Florida, the nation and the world.

THE PRESIDENTIAL MEDALLION

The President's Medallion, worn at all official academic occasions, was first used by Stetson's sixth president, John E. Johns. The medallion, cast in silver, is the university seal embraced by a wreath of laurel.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

The traditional pageantry of an academic procession is one of the impressive spectacles of our time. The array of handsome gowns and vividly colored hoods worn by the faculty and administration are the symbols of scholarly attainment.

THE UNIVERSITY SEAL

The circular seal of Stetson University was first adopted between 1889 and 1891, around the time the name of the institution changed from DeLand College to John B. Stetson University. It first appeared on a university catalog in 1891. The drawing was by an artist-in-residence and approved by President Forbes, Henry DeLand and John B. Stetson, as well as by the Board of Trustees. The Latin motto, "Pro Deo et Veritate," is translated "For God and Truth." The Lamp, signifying the Light of Truth, rests on the Book of Wisdom.

MACE

Maces were originally war instruments, but from the 13th century have been carried by the sergeant-at-arms of educational entities. The mace symbolizes the dignity and authority of the president and the Board of Trustees.

The Stetson mace, designed by Episcopalian Canon Edward Nason West of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, New York, was presented to President J. Ollie Edmunds in 1956.

GONFALONS

Gonfalons are thought to have originated in Western Europe during the Middle Ages, when such banners displayed the personal coat of arms of a nobleman and were used as war flags hung from a horizontal bar and carried on a staff or suspended from a knight's lance. As early as the 12th century, they were commonly used at state and religious ceremonies. Such pageantry finds a place today in the academic ceremonies of many colleges and universities.

Prominently featuring the university seal and the name of the respective college or school, the gonfalons are richly hued in Stetson's colors of green and white, accented by a luminous gold. The stately Elizabeth Hall cupola graces each gonfalon as a symbol of our heritage.

The bearers are outstanding members of the student body who have been selected by their respective dean for this honor.

THE FLAG

The university flag, designed by an alumna in 1976, features Stetson's official seal in the center, surrounded by the university's colors of green and white.

HONOR CORDS/PINS

Students who have earned a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.5 on a four point scale are presented with university honor cords of green and white. Students who are wearing other honor cords or pins have distinguished themselves with high academic excellence in their discipline, as designated below.
